

ABSTRACT

A protect shield for a radiator mainly utilized to protect a heat transfer medium on the radiator. The protect shield has a shield body with the bottom and lateral sides thereof defining a receiving space for hiding and receiving the radiator. Further,
5 a receiving space for hiding and receiving the radiator. Further, the shield body has a support unit projecting from the inner surface of the bottom for putting up the heat transfer medium so as to prevent the heat transfer medium from being accidentally touched and being stained with dust.